J. EAST
 135-31 40th Rd., Flushing, Queens, (718) 886-6060

WHY: Leek dumplings, scallion pancakes, salt-and-pepper prawns and other uncommonly good Chinese food, all at pleasant prices.

WHEN: 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily.

HOW MUCH: 75 cents for a scallion pancake to $12.95 for some seafood dishes.

By Sylvia Carter

MY FRIENDS NOTE about J. East said it was "incredible." It cost $54 (including a splendid tip) for "more than four big eaters could consume," she said. This from a woman who has eaten — a lot — in China.

You'd better believe I hurried right over to Flushing, which almost seems more like Chinatown than Chinatown these days. J. East was a proverbial stone's throw from the Main Street subway stop on the Flushing line, and there was free parking across the street. I was liking this place better and better all the time.

By the time I tasted beef broth enriched by falling-apart braised beef, with fat noodles cooked in that dark, flavorful broth, well, by then, I knew I liked this place. There were plenty of other persuasive reasons: perky pickled cucumbers ($1.75), fried dumplings filled with tender leeks ($1), scallion pancakes (75 cents) so alluring it's impossible to stop at one. Steamed pancakes with sliced beef were delectable, a sort of mini-barbecued beef sandwich.

At J. East, it was even possible to get potatoes, savory chunks of them in the nourishing oxtail soup. Some other soups and appetizers may be acquired tastes. Unless you have had boiled peanuts in the past, you may not care for the spiced ones served here. Out of curiosity, we tried "cherries and red jumble" with quail, a sweet-tasting soup the waitress warned us was "real Chinese food." A broth flavored with aromatic medicinal root and dried red plums contained a poached bird stewed, no to speak, in its own juices. You won't need to be coaxed into trying the excellent salt-and-pepper prawns ($8.95) served with a liberal garnish of chopped scallion. Scallops with barbecue tea sauce were fresh and fine. And succulent Peking-style baby ribs, falling apart tender beneath a slightly sweet sauce, will easily satisfy meat lovers.

We wanted to sample shredded beef with bitter melon, but that seasonal specialty was not available, so we settled for sliced beef with oyster sauce and a lively dab of shredded beef cinnamon (said flavor, which is actually flavored with dried flower buds and had a nice tang to it. The beef looked lovely, too, scattered with scallions and masses of julienne red and green pepper.

The poppy flavor of "braised chunks chicken" belied its unsavory name. Sauteed eggplant, the small purple kind, was perfection, and sauteed straw mushrooms with delicate little bulbs of Chinese baby cabbage, was a simple dish that allowed the vegetables' own good flavors to shine. I preferred crisp, pan-fried noodles with a sauce of straw mushrooms, scallops, crab, pea pods and baby corn to the 10 ingredient lo mein, soft noodles that were somewhat chewy in spots.

I always swear I won't do the restaurant review what's just a list, and I have. But so much is so good that I can't seem to help myself. I want to keep going back. I want to find out what the "honey dip ham with bread," is, and I want to have braised turtle with chestnuts when it is in season.

Bud and tea are the drink, and when our waitress noticed that the tea looked dark, she took that cup away and brought a fresh pot.

With our fortune cookies, we got wedges of juicy oranges. "They brought us free lemon with our bill and told us to come back and bring our friends," marveled my friend. "Is all of Flushing like this?"

QUEENS, NEW YORK 11373 (212) 651-1331

We would like to extend our warmest welcome to you! In JAL-YA we hope to enhance you to a new, authentic taste in Oriental cuisine, as you have never tasted before in the metropolitan area.

Our spicy hot dishes are prepared in three categories:

1. Mild hot & spicy (recommended for beginners)
2. Hot & spicy
3. Very hot & spicy

("Hot" means in taste, not in the temperature)

Please advise your waiter distinctly which category you desire to avoid errors. However, for non-spicy eaters, we will be happy to eliminate the hot spicy flavorings from your favorite dishes.

Should your favorites not be listed here, please describe your desire to us, we will gladly have our experienced chefs prepare them for you.

If you are allergic to M.S.G. or other ingredients, please let the waiter or the manager know in advance so that we may make special arrangements to be attentive to your dishes.

We are honored to welcome you to our establishment and we welcome your comments and criticisms.

We hope you will enjoy your dinner.
